

LEGACY PUBLIC SCHOOL

WEEKLY EBULLETIN FOR JANUARY 24, 2014

Cold Weather Continues!!

It was a might cold week at Legacy with too many indoor recesses and a broken pipe resulting in a flood on Wednesday. Luckily our students and staff are hearty and flexible and we all continued learning!

Mathletes

On Tuesday our junior students were involved in Mathletes. This highly energizing program encourages students to solve a variety of math problems throughout the day. Our students set a goal of 6000 questions to be answered and surpassed their goal by 1500!! Well done.

Special thanks to Mrs. Andrews who planned and organized this large scale event (despite falling ill the day before!!)

Grow Interactive

Our School Council in partnership with our Positive Climate for Learning committee welcomes Grow Interactive to our school on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday this week. Our students and staff will be involved in a variety of interactive activities that relate to our anti-bullying and inclusive goals for our school. Please talk to your child about their experience with Grow!!

Invasion of Apple Products

Mr. Demacio is a true believer in technology as a learning tool and has acquired a number of iPads, iPods and other Apple products for us to try out before we make some technology purchases this year.

Mrs. Merklely shared an example of what can be done with iPads:

The children have been working on creating a rhythmic ostinato based on the refrain of Mem Fox's book, the Magic Hat. They have to select the appropriate tempo and rhythmic instruments to play the ostinato to reflect their chosen animals. By capturing their work on the ipad and viewing their performance afterwards, the children and I were able to give each other positive feedback and provide suggestions on how they could improve on their work. The children were very excited and thrilled with the experience of integrating technology in their creative work!
