

The Redstone Song

(D.Inglis and J.Orchanian)

As you walk down these halls, you see learning, you hear laughter.
So much within these walls, everybody knows they matter.

Everyone here is different,
yet so much all the same Respect and perseverance, are some traits that we claim.

One Stone at a Time, how high can you climb?
The future is bright, the path is clear,
The time is right, we're together here
At Redstone...at Redstone

The parents and the teachers, are cheering from the bleachers.
The students all know they can make it, everyone is a perfect fit.

We work hard and we play fair,
we all know that success is there,
Prepared for what lies ahead,
because we're all here building our future...

Chorus ("One Stone at a time...") repeats
