Is it a good idea for high school students to have a part-time job?

On my opinion, the answer to the question "Is it a good idea for high school students to have a part-time job" depends entirely on the point of view of the person asking and the circumstances of the high school students, for instance.

Annotation:
The response expresses an opinion (depends entirely on the point of view...and the circumstances...) with no supporting details. There is no evidence of organization.
Is it a good idea for high school students to have a part-time job?

I think it is good for high school students to have a part-time job because it teaches us responsibility at a young age, and to have self goals.

On the other hand a job in high school may not work out as good because it would be hard to balance school work, and play a sport 4-5 times a week. You may not have time would be the problem there.

Annotation:
The response is related to the prompt, and expresses and supports an opinion, but the opinion is inconsistent (yes in the first paragraph and no in the second paragraph). There are insufficient supporting details: too few.
Is it a good idea for high school students to have a part-time job?

It is a good idea for high school students to have a part-time job. Having a job will give student working experience. They will know how having a job works and understand how to manage a job as part of their schedule.

Students would also gain experience at a job, which they could put on a resume when applying for a job. They would also have more experience so they would excel at that job.

Students would get money for working, which they could save. That money would enable them to get a post-secondary education which would enable them to get a better job later on after they finish the post secondary education.

Annotation:

The response is related to the prompt and expresses a clear opinion. There are insufficient and vague supporting details (... more experience so they would excel at that job.). There is evidence of organization but lapses occur when ideas are introduced in the first paragraph (how having a job works...manage a job...) and are not developed.
Is it a good idea for high school students to have a part-time job?

I think that it is a good idea for students to have a part-time job.

One reason is because you have money, then you don't have to ask your parents for money whenever you want to buy something you can buy it yourself.

Another reason is you don't waste time. Let's say you have no homework one day and all you do at home is waste time watching TV so if you have a job you don't waste time.

A final reason is that it teaches you how to be responsible. If you have a job and you are not responsible you will get fired, so it teaches you how to be responsible.

That is why I think students should have a part-time job.

Annotation:

The response develops a clear and consistent opinion and is developed with sufficient supporting details, of which some are general (whenever you want to buy something...teaches you how to be responsible) and some are specific (Let's say you have no homework...waste time watching TV). The organization is mechanical and any lapses do not distract from the overall communication (One reason...another reason...That is why I think...).
Is it a good idea for high school students to have a part-time job?

Students having a part-time job is a very interesting topic. In my opinion, I believe that it is a great idea for students to have part-time jobs for three main reasons. Firstly, it provides them with work experience that can be developed and further explored in future occupations. Secondly, it teaches students important personal skills and how to work socially with other co-workers. Lastly, I believe that it gives the students a chance to give back to their community.

First of all, working part-time jobs at an early age allows us students to develop mature skills and work experience. Going to work only when you are an adult is a disadvantage because you have to learn everything right from scratch. When you have the ability to explore different jobs as a student, I think that you can learn life-time experiences that you will need in future occupations. It is much easier to develop and explore new ideas as an employee when you are young so you can learn from your mistakes and use them to your advantage to build on these experiences. Altogether, I believe that working a part-time job as a student provides you with learning experiences everyday.

Secondly, along with experience, part-time jobs teach you important personal skills. Working as a student teaches you skills such as responsibility, respect for co-workers, and most importantly, social skills. You can develop these skills everyday on a part-time job but what is key is that you can improve on these skills and use them as an adult. What better way is there to learn how to treat others and take care of yourself than to develop them at an early age. Also, working as a student allows you to learn how to manage your time efficiently. As a whole, it allows you to develop many skills needed for future jobs.

Finally, I think that working at a young age gives students a chance to give back to their community. People are always stressing on how us teenagers do not do enough for society and part-time jobs allow us to do this. It also allows us to provide everyday services to people. Altogether, students can get involved in their communities and give back good service to everyone.

In conclusion, I believe that giving students part-time jobs is a great idea. It gets students off the streets and into great learning experiences. It not only provides us with great skills but teaches us discipline and responsibility. It gives teenagers a chance to become responsible and develop for future endeavors.

Annotation:
A clear and consistent opinion is developed with sufficient specific supporting details (each paragraph is developed with specific details and this is explained in the first paragraph). The organization is logical (First of all...Secondly, along with experience...Finally...In conclusion).
Is it a good idea for high school students to have a part-time job?

Part-time employment for students is a highly speculated and interesting topic. I feel every student should have a part-time job in high school. To begin with, it allows students to earn a type of income. Secondly, it gives students a sense of independence to be out in the workforce. Finally, I feel it would be a good idea to earn work experience which will better their chances of getting a decent job in the future.

As a teenager, having money at my disposal is very important and also required to have a social life. This comes into effect if I would like to go to a movie or out to dinner with a friend. Without money in our society, we are very limited to the activities we can pursue. Furthermore, if I wish to have a certain type of clothing, my parents will only pay so much. If I wish to purchase a more expensive brand, it must come out of my pocket. Thus, in order to fit the student's needs without the parents having to pay, a part-time job is an ideal resource.

Along with the material items you receive from money, you also are being self-sufficient, which is a satisfying feeling. Having our own job helps us to feel and experience maturity and learn valuable lessons along the way. If we have a commitment to keep, if we don't want to let ourselves and our employers down, we must stay true to our work.
Furthermore, we are not reliant on our parents for everything we would need our like. This aspect not only teaches responsibility but the feeling of accomplishment we get cannot be beat.

Finally, apart from a fiscal viewpoint, we are receiving valuable work experience. This will be great to put on a resume, and employers seek it. For example, two people right out of university with the same credentials and qualifications as you could be fighting for a job. If you have more work experience, you will most likely get the position. Additionally, you now know what you like about jobs, how to handle yourself and developing people skills.

Many teenagers today can definitely benefit from the aspects of a job. Whether or not they enjoy the job is irrelevant. I feel the positives they can receive from it are infinite. I also feel more teens should soon begin to consider this as an option, not only for their immediate benefit but to assist in their future hopes.

Annotation:
A clear and consistent opinion is developed with sufficient specific supporting details that are thoughtfully chosen (movie, out to dinner with a friend, certain type of clothing, a more expensive brand). The organization is coherent, demonstrating a thoughtful progression of ideas in each paragraph and in written work as a whole, with each paragraph building on the preceding one.

Is it a good idea for high school students to have a part-time job?

I think it's a good idea for kids to have a part-time job because it's an experience for kids. It teaches high school kids a valuable life lesson and how to earn something in life and to know you gotta work for things in life and that not everything is going to be given to you and that you have to work to get where you want in life so it's kind of a discipline thing to do. Pending the way you look at it or plus its money in there. Parent teaches them the value of saving and spending money how to keep track of your finances so a part-time job kids prepares yourself for the future plus you always learn something new from a job like how to do certain things you find out. You know kids of information about anything so I do agree it's a good idea to have kids have part-time jobs but just as long as it doesn't get in the way of school so that you can handle both cause if you can't handle both then you shouldn't have a job.

Annotation:

Frequency and nature of errors distract from communication: e.g., lack of sentence punctuation; spelling: I, gotta, giving, disiplin; homophones: there, knew; contractions: its, doesn't, cant, shouldn't.
Is it a good idea for high school students to have a part-time job?

Jobs can provide good experiences to help you in the future. It is a good idea for high school students to have jobs, but there is also a lot of stress that can go along with that.

Everyone at some point in their life will need a job to carry on independently, without parents. Getting a job early in life can prepare you for jobs in the future. Jobs can help students exercise responsibility, organization and planning, as well as team skills. Many of these qualities you can also learn from school, but to get outside of that comfort zone can be good to try new things. In a part-time job you may be required to work with others or help customers allowing you to develop people skills. When you have a job you have to organize your days differently in order to fit in everything that needs to get done, which is a skill you will need in the future so your life will flow smoothly. And finally it is a student's responsibility to be at work on time and keeping up a good reputation is good practice that is also a good quality. All of these actions is why I think it is a great idea for high school students to have a part-time job.

As well as having good qualities develop while getting the job experience, it can be quite stressful and busy, and if you don't like your job, that might trigger an unhappy life. When students are overloaded with school, projects and extra-curricular activities like sports, a part-time job may not be the best idea. When you have too many things to do, you can become stressed. Some students get jobs, but then don’t actually like what they are doing. If this happens, it can cause them to be unhappy with other things, simply because they are not enjoying all parts of life. These are some of the negative factors you should consider before suggesting a student get a job.

All of these things have to be considered and a lot of thought should happen before applying for a job. There are more positive outcomes than negative if a student chooses to get a part-time job, especially if you need a bit of cash. Jobs can be fun, but make sure it does not control your life if you are just a student, passing high school would be the highest priority, so make decisions wisely.

Annotation:

Errors in conventions (e.g. high school, independently, responsibility, develope, you days) do not distract from communication; reader easily follows train of thought.
Is it a good idea for high school students to have a part-time job?

In my opinion, it is an excellent idea for high school students to have a part-time job. Today's youth is becoming increasingly less motivated and hard-working and so I believe that having a part-time job could reap incredible benefits for the students. These benefits would include teaching the value of a dollar, increasing the sense of responsibility and improving commitment, as well as time management skills.

Even as a student I am aware that my generation is extremely sheltered. I believe that some protection is necessary, but I also know that in order to be the best that we can be, we must experience the reality that is the working world. I believe that having a part-time job has taught me the true value of a dollar: that I must work hard to earn money and that that earned money should not be spent lightly. Compared to my peers without a part-time job, my spending habits are much more controlled and my sense of worth is not solely based on my possessions.

Secondly, at work I am one of the younger staff members and therefore I must act very mature and be committed to what I am doing.
As a gymnastics coach, I am put into a role of authority, as well as a nurturing role model. This role has no room to be irresponsible and so this job has taught me to look out for others and be responsible. This is yet another benefit that I have experienced.

Lastly, as an involved member of my community, and various other activities, I have had to manage my time very wisely. Having a job decreases time for homework which may seem like a disadvantage at first, but I would argue that by decreasing homework time, one cannot afford to procrastinate. One becomes very hardworking and disciplined, and can carry over these skills into virtually everything they do.

In conclusion, I do believe that having a part-time job is beneficial to the complete development of high school students. However, everything must be in moderation, and appropriate to the level and age of the student.

Annotation:

Control of conventions is evident in written work: evidence of control of commas for words in introductory phrases and apposition; colon (e.g., value of a dollar: that I must work...). The incorrect spelling (e.g., commitment) does not require re-reading or undermine overall control of conventions in the written work.

Identify one action you take in your daily life to be healthy. Use specific details to explain how this action contributes to your health.

I will try to reduce the times of using the plastic bags. If it is possible, I will use paper bags all instead. The reason of using a paper bag instead of a plastic bag is that the plastics never biodegrades, it doesn't break down into natural substances. Instead, it will exposure to light, splitting into smaller and smaller piece of plastics which is really harmful for human health.

Annotation: The response shows limited control of conventions. Rules of syntax, grammar and usage are applied without accuracy or consistency. They include sentence fragments (If it is possible.), syntax errors (I will use paper bags all instead), mistakes in agreement (plastics never biodegrades), a spelling error (spitting) and errors in usage (Instead, it will exposure to light; reason of I using).
Identify one action you take in your daily life to be healthy. Use specific details to explain how this action contributes to your health.

One action I take in my daily life to be healthy is exercising. Every child must be engaged in at least one to two hours of physical activity daily. By doing so, they increase their rate of blood circulation, keeping their heart pumping and their health strong. With being engaged in physical activity, children such as myself are able to keep their health strong to fight illnesses.

Annotation:
The response shows competent control of conventions although there is a minor error in noun-pronoun agreement (Every child ... they increase their rate of blood circulation...) and an error in usage (With being engaged in physical activity...).
