Spring has sprung...

Somehow, we already find ourselves at the beginning of April. Where has the time gone. With Passover, Holi and Nowruz all happening in the past couple of weeks, and Easter this coming weekend, we are certainly focused on the return of spring and balmy temperatures.

In case you haven't seen it yet, the WCI Spirit Committee has created an amazing six minute video, featuring teachers and administrators brushing up on their "Yute" speak. The final result is both entertaining and telling. This is just one of the examples of the hard work that the Spirit Committee continues to engage in to improve the student experience here at WCI.

STAY CONNECTED

Instagram

With Covid case numbers rising in the province, it is recommended that students be prepared to switch to virtual learning on very short notice. If there is a technology need in your home, please contact the Main Office to arrange loan technology. At WCI we share information with you, our larger community, as soon as it is available. Please keep an eye on both @YRDSB and @WCI\_YRDSB for additional information. We live in times where things are constantly changing, and we strive to share information with you as quickly as possible.

As we move towards the end of the year, planning for various end of year activities are underway. Graduates and their parents have received information about grad photos, and an upcoming memento book. We are still waiting on more information about graduation, but are working behind-the-scenes to ensure that we will be ready.

This first half of this semester ends next Wednesday, April 7th. Grade 10 students in Civics and Careers will switch teachers beginning on the 9th. Midterm report cards will be available on March 27th. Grade 12s looking to unenroll from a class, prior to Full Disclosure, should monitor the Guidance Twitter handle @WCIGuidance for specific information about the process.

Planning for next year is well underway. Over the next couple of months, your child's courses selection will be collected and combined with other students to decide how many sections of each class we will run. We build the timetable, from scratch, every year. We are still expecting to have any conflicts resolved prior to the end of June and students should expect their timetables at the end of August.

As this point, Locker Partners have been assigned and collected from both Grade 9s and 10s. Grade 11s and Grade 12 students for next year have until this coming Wednesday, April 7th to make their partner requests. They should use the Google Form link that was sent to their @GAPPS email accounts earlier this week. In the event that a student does not choose a partner, a partner will be randomly assigned.

Thank you again for your time and patience this year. We couldn't have done it without you, without the students, without the teachers and without the rest of our amazing staff!

A Message From The Principal

Important COVID Information for the WCI Community

Hello,

In light of the numerous phone calls we have received plus the many rumours and mis-information swirling about the community we wanted to take this opportunity to clarify COVID procedures and share some important information with you.

When the school is notified about a positive Covid result, we immediately report this information to York Region Public Health. We collect and share detailed information with Public Health, including: test date, results date, the day the student last attended WCI and symptoms. Once the report is filed an administrator is contacted, within a very short time frame, by a YRPH nurse. Please understand that we are on-call to YRPH 24/7 and all three administrators have been contacted late into the evening and on weekend days, if there is an immediate need to share information with our families. If there is a class to be dismissed due to the possibility of a school transmission, we then call each affected family, send home a class/cohort letter, and a general letter to the community. If the positive case has not been in school during the “contagious period” prior to their positive test result, then the case is not considered a school case and no letter is shared with the WCI community. This is what has happened most recently; the positive cases had not been in the building during the contagious period prior to the positive result. These are then not school cases, but community cases. There are no letters to send home as there are no school cases.

It is always best when students or families get in touch with us regarding a positive Covid result, however even if we don't hear directly from a student/family we will find out from York Region Public Health. Once a positive case is registered through YRPH, a Public Health nurse will determine if the name matches a school report and if they realize they don't have a corresponding school report then the school is contacted and the information is shared with us that way. So no one can “hide” from letting the school know. Whether we are informed directly by a parent, or by Public Health, the process is the same, as outlined above.

As well, “close contacts” are also determined through the reporting process and told to stay home and isolate. A close contact is

“someone who was within 2 metres of the positive person for more than 10 minutes, who lives in the same household or provides care to the positive person, or who had close physical contact with, such as shaking hands, during the contagious period.”

YRPH works closely with both the student who is positive, the family, and the school to determine who the “close contacts” are who need to be contacted and remain at home. Not everyone who has seen the person in the last week, for example, is considered a close contact. Only those people whose interaction with the positive case fits the criteria listed above is considered a “close contact”. So for example a student who was with a sibling of a positive student, 6 days before the positive student had any symptoms, is not considered a “close contact”. Once the close contacts have been identified and notified we then monitor the attendance of those students as well, to ensure they are not coming to school. In addition, we are also in regular communication with our elementary partner schools and if any students are positive in an elementary school or a close contact of a positive case in an elementary school, we are also notified about potential close contacts here at WCI and monitor the attendance of those students as well. As you can tell this is all very complicated but we are constantly monitoring everyone as this is something we take very seriously.

Continued...

This year we are taking extra care when monitoring attendance of students as we need this data to determine when students were last in school and if positive cases will result in a class being sent home to isolate. This contact tracing is crucial for Public Health why we cannot mark them present if they are not physically in class.

We also wanted to let you know that just because some YRDSB schools have closed recently it does not necessarily mean they are rife with Covid. Most often it is due to a few covid cases (from the community and not school transmission) and there is not enough staff to safely supervise the students. For example, if the Music teacher in an elementary school tests positive due to a family related exposure, every classroom, teacher and students, that the music teacher worked in must go home and isolate. That could take 6-7 teachers out of a school. This could leave a school without adequate supervision and as a result, the school must close. Do not assume that a school closure is due to Covid outbreak but instead seek to find out from someone at that school as it is more likely due to lack of supervision. Supply teachers are in very high demand these days and at times, all YRDSB schools are struggling to find coverage sometimes.

WCI, like all YRDSB schools, continues to be a very safe environment. Our students and staff are 100% compliant with every Covid safety precaution that is in place. All our students wear masks in the building at all times and our staff wear masks and face shields/goggles at all times as well. We have had no transmission of Covid at any point in WCI and we intend to keep it that way. We can achieve this if all members of our community continue to follow the rules and work together.

This is a trying time for everyone; especially our students. They are so tired of “staying home” and really miss being teenagers! All they want is to be kids once again. We understand that! We recognize how important it is for our students to have structure, see other people, and remember that there is a place that is also their “home” in addition to their families. Our students also look to us, the important adults in their lives, as to how they should be feeling, what they should worry about, and what they need to do. Let’s work together to ensure that we provide a calm, reassuring presence for our students. Let’s also remember that it is important to have facts, speak with confidence and authority, so that our children feel confident that the adults in their lives are taking good care of them. We are so thankful that you share your children with us, they are wonderful young adults and we truly adore them!

If you have questions or concerns please contact us, we love to hear from you!

Take care and have a wonderful long weekend!

Social Connection and the Power of a Listening Ear

A year later, we continue to experience uncertainty with lockdowns and social distancing; we long for social interaction with peers, friends, and families beyond our immediate social circles. This month's newsletter will focus on the importance of maintaining and expanding our social connections by offering a listening ear while following Public Health guidelines.

Restrictions limiting in-person interactions have left many parents and students feeling a sense of isolation, sadness, anxiousness, and frustration, among other feelings. The importance of offering a listening ear could not be more pronounced as many feel disconnected and alone. According to CMHA 'really listening' is the key to a meaningful connection. Active listening is a part of effective communication skills that can support building a real connection with other people. It can take some getting used to, especially when behind a mask and distanced six feet apart or even behind a virtual screen.

The importance of offering a listening ear to understand what a person might be experiencing is a small act that can make a meaningful difference. Leon F. Seltzer Ph. D. explains why feeling understood is essential to our wellbeing and how it connects us to others, allowing us to feel welcomed.

Included below are some tips to build connection safely by offering a sympathetic ear:

- Reach out in a manner that feels safe and follows Public Health guidelines i.e., phone call, zoom, text, and other creative ways.
- Take the time to let the other person know you are there for them. "I am here for you. I am listening. Tell me what's on your mind..."
- Show empathy and understanding by validating what is being said. "I hear you, and it makes sense why you would feel this way."
- Acknowledge their feelings.

- Be present in the moment with the person.
- Listen to understand and take the necessary time to absorb the information.
- Ask questions when appropriate. The questions should be curious, open-ended, and ones that do not contain an answer. "Can you tell me more about what that was like for you?"
- Pay attention to body language by facing the person to show you are listening.
- Avoid advice-giving, interrupting, making assumptions, or judgments.
- Let the conversation flow.
- Be honest about how much time you can offer to connect.

Following these tips should help you get started on building meaningful connections through the act of listening.

School Mental Health Ontario has created various resources for educators, parents and families, and students regarding supporting student mental health by developing healthy relationship skills. Check out some more tips from School Mental Health Ontario on reaching out, so you can be your best to support your children.
